

Privacy Policy

With the following Privacy Policy, we comply with our statutory obligations to inform and instruct. In the following, we inform you about all privacy policies in connection with bikester.co.uk and internetstores AG.

I. We use the information provided by you (title, name, address, e-mail address, phone number, fax number, credit card details) in accordance with the provisions of German privacy law.

II. Your personal information will be used exclusively for the purpose of carrying out the contracts that have been concluded between us, for example for the purpose of delivering goods to the address provided by you. Any further use of your information for the purposes of advertising, market research, or means-tested design of our offers, will not occur.

III. Once the contract has been completely carried out, which also includes the complete payment of the agreed purchase price, your information, which must be stored for legal reasons, will be blocked. This information will not be available any longer for any further use. Furthermore, your information will be deleted, provided you have not expressly consented to any further processing and use of your information. In this case, you can request the stored information from us, or have the stored information amended or deleted by us. You may revoke your consent at any time.

IV. If you register for the newsletter, we store your e-mail address for the purposes of advertising and market research until you de-register from the newsletter.

V. If you require further information or if you would like your information to be deleted, our support is available to you at the e-mail address mail@bikester.co.uk.

VI. In this shop, information about the content of your shopping basket is stored in the cookies. The information can then be retrieved at the time of your subsequent visits. If you register with us or if you would like to submit an order, we require your customer information. If you are already one of our customers, you can register simply by using your e-mail address and your personal password. The information that is stored in a cookie saves you from having to fill in the forms. The generated cookies expire after 30 days. In addition, in your Browser Program you can manage the receipt of cookies from this site and block these if necessary.

VII. Our Internet presence uses the "+1" button of the social network Google Plus, which is run by Google Inc., 1600 Amphitheatre Parkway, Mountain View, CA 94043, United States ("Google"). The button is the symbol "+1" in white or coloured background recognisable.

If you call a web page that includes our internet presence, and contains such a button, your browser constructs a direct connection with the servers of Google when you click it. The contents of the "+1" Button is transmitted from Google directly to your web browser and is then bound into the webpage. Therefore we have no influence on the data collected or how it used, once this Google Button has obtained your IP Address.

For further information regarding the purpose and extent of the data related to this Google "+1" button, and importantly your rights including settings and controlling of your private information please follow the following link: www.google.com/intl/de/+/policy/+1button.html

If you are a Google plus member or would not like Google to gather information regarding your internet site visits so that it can be stored in Google, you must first log out of Google Plus before your visit any of our internet sites.

Please make any enquiries regarding execution, return, guarantee etc. in writing by using the Customer Service Module.
